TORONTO NOTES

SARAH CASSELMAN greets fall with rich hues and rocker-girl chic.

Judging from her fall collection of tees and cardigans (think gunmetal chains, silver-mesh trim and rich velvets), designer ERIN KLEINBERG is having a medieval moment with a little rock 'n' roll thrown in for good measure. With their decadent details, these oversized, über-soft tops (from $198) are guaranteed to shake up your basics, whether you're rock royalty or otherwise (yes, that is It model Theodora Richards, daughter of Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards, on the pages of Kleinberg's Fall '09 look book). Available at select Holt Renfrew stores (holtrenfrew.com) and TNT Blu (tntthenewtrend.com). ● ELEVEN GETS A 10 What happens when three established Canadian designers (Linda Lundström, Thien Le and Joeffer Caoc) join fashion forces? A sophisticated new Yorkville boutique named ELEVEN is born (116 Cumberland St., 416-966-3935). Those in need of stylish separates, like Caoc's ankle-tie trousers ($385), casual dresses à la Lundström's coveted Tuck n' Tie dress ($249), and the hottest new accessories, like Ted Rossi's python bangles (from $139), should hit the main level. Eveningwear aficionados will find everything their haute hearts desire among the exclusive selection of Thien Le gowns on the second floor. ● FASHION FUEL Ah, summer dresses, parting is such sweet sorrow, but fall denim, how do I love thee? Let me count the ways at the new DIESEL flagship store (92 Yorkville Ave., 416-968-3335). This multi-level, 7,700-square-foot denim destination houses the complete Diesel collection for women and men, Diesel Black Gold (Nicole Richie is a fan),

Diesel Kid and a stellar selection of footwear and accessories.

Make sure to visit the great wall of denim (located on the second floor) to find out what's hot this season. Hint: The '80s are still going strong. ● COLOUR DU JOUR OK, confession. Lately, I have been craving plums—you know, those deep, rich shades of purple that instantly bump a girl up to first-class fashionista. So when I spotted LNE's flirty camisole ($130) at new-boutique-on-the-block VOCADO (171 East Liberty St., Unit 121, 416-710-3110, vocado.ca), I knew I had found my plum pusher. For those looking for anything-but-plum (is it possible?), owner Emily Dobbie offers a colour wheel's worth of styles from labels like Teenflo, Designers Remix and Members Only. □
