Eleven boutique celebrates its one year anniversary

On Wednesday, Eleven celebrated its one year anniversary. Eleven is a clothing boutique located in the upscale neighbourhood of Yorkville and stands out amongst its neighbours with a clean-cut black exterior. Inside it carries a range of designer items with a strong contingent of Canadian labels lining the racks, such as Joeffer Caoc, Lundström and Lucian Matis.

I really enjoyed the evening's festivities – it was an easy going and mellow atmosphere that allowed attendees to peruse the clothing and mingle with one another without having to shout over blaring music – it's just what the fashion doctors ordered for the night.

Highlights of the celebrations were having the pleasure of catching up with several Toronto bloggers and designers: Shay Lowe, whose jewellery was used for the spring/summer 2010 runway presentation by NADA, and Canadian designers David Dixon and Wesley Badanjak.

Of course, the night ended with Stylist and Fashion Editor of FILLER magazine, Tricia Campbell-Hall showing me her signature model poses – fun times!
